W9XAP-THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

Bill Hay, famous announcer of WMAQ, speaking into a WMAQ microphone while the microvisor picks up his profile for the television broadcast over W9XAP.

Everett Wells, of The Daily News staff, presenting the popular News Flashes over The Daily News stations WMAQ and W9XAP. Station WMAQ broadcasts his voice and station W9XAP transmits his image. This program is presented each day at 12:33 P.M.

The operator busy at the Television Controls, which send pictures through the air.

The first six floors house the offices and publishing plant of The Daily News. The three smaller top floors are occupied by The Daily News Radio Department, Radio laboratories, the broadcasting studios, executive offices of WMAQ, The Daily News Radio Station, and the Television Studios and transmitter of The Daily News Station W9XAP.

WMAQ

Transmitter

Situated 17 miles west of Chicago on a ten-acre site are the transmitter and towers of WMAQ, The Daily News broadcasting station.

Chicago's Most Complete RADIO PAGES

These excellent pages, full of practical and newsy information of great value to Chicago radio fans, are edited by William S. Hedges, President, National Association of Broadcasters, Secretary, Press Wireless, Inc., and President, WMAQ, Inc.

These Pages Contain

more radio news than any other Chicago newspaper. Complete daily programs, both broadcast and television. The only daily technical article (by Kenneth A. Hathaway based on actual scientific investigations). Complete chain programs with Chicago outlets for coming week published in Saturday page. "Pick of the Air" and pictures and other information to aid the radio fan in getting the maximum enjoyment from his set.
